Excerpt of pertinent information :

1. During the fall of 1949, rumors were current that Gen. Nicolae RADESCU was sponsoring a congress in Paris of Rumanians in exile. Source (Rumanian emigre) was unable to establish that any such meeting was to take place, and Gen. RADESCU's subsequent departure from the capital for the United States seemed to negate the possibility.
2. Recently, however, Source states, the matter has been revived, and there is some gossip in the Rumanian colony concerning a congress. It appears that late in December 1949 certain Rumanians, all members of the Iron Guard organization, began to circulate rumors to the effect that a congress should be called in order to discuss and disapprove of certain actions of the Rumanian National Committee, in which the Iron Guard has no representation. Realizing that a call for such a congress would carry no weight unless some prominent Rumanian was involved, the Iron Guard is supposed to have attempted to sound out RADESCU, either directly or through his close collaborators, on the proposition. Evidently, Source concludes, RADESCU did not take the affair seriously, for he left for the United States and nothing has come of the congress.
3. Vasilin CLUJ, a personal friend of RADESCU's is known to have been very interested in the movement and attempted to revive the idea of a congress in January of this year, but apparently was unable to do so. . .
4. So far as can be ascertained, according to Source, RADESCU was never actively mixed up in the supposed Congress rumored in December, which now appears to have been instigated by the Iron Guard.

This is all the pertinent information on subject in this document.
